

D'Amore-McKim School of Business

Website (https://damore-mckim.northeastern.edu/?utm_medium=website&utm_source=catalog)

David De Cremer, PhD, Dunton Family Dean

Kate E. Klepper, MBA, Associate Dean of Graduate Programs

Founded in 1922, the D'Amore-McKim School of Business exemplifies Northeastern University's experiential learning and entrepreneurial spirit. Our graduate programs are designed to prepare learners to be responsible business leaders of the world capable of working, navigating, and creating in a digital environment.

D'Amore-McKim is part of a thriving global network, attracting some of the best and brightest faculty across the business world. Many are founders of startups and respected management leaders, and our students benefit daily from their research and expertise.

Experience-powered learning is at the heart of everything we do. Our students do more than master skills in their chosen business field. They put the knowledge gained from a demanding curriculum to work as they apply what they've learned to authentic business challenges. This educational model sets us apart.

Graduate School of Business Administration

617.373.5992

Campus-based programs: gradbusiness@northeastern.edu

Online programs: online@northeastern.edu

Graduate School of Professional Accounting

617.373.3244

gspa@northeastern.edu