

GENERAL SURGERY (GSU)

Course in general surgery (GSU) is offered by the Faculty of Medicine

GSU 6101 General Surgery (2 units)

These courses cover the general principles of surgery and are given in blocks of two and body response to trauma; surgical metabolism; shock; postoperative complications; principles of management of the patient with multiple injuries; wound healing and the inflammatory response; basic principles of surgical microbiology; antibiotics; general oncology; basic immunology; and organ transplantation and immunosuppression.

Course Component: Lecture