THEATRE ARTS, MINOR

The Theatre Arts Program offers a six-course minor, with three courses that focus on academic approaches to the theatre, such as the study of dramatic literature, theory, history and criticism, and three that focus practical aspects of performance, such as acting, directing, designing, devising, and playwriting. English majors concentrating on drama will find courses that cross-list; a diverse group of students with a wide array of major fields of study find it possible to pursue their interest in Theatre Arts with a minor.
