Sample Sequence

This sample sequence is intended to be used only as a guide for degree completion. All students should work individually with their academic advisors to decide the actual course selection and sequence that works best for them based on their academic preparation and goals. Enrichment programming such as study abroad, minors, internships, and so on may impact the structure of this four-year plan. Course availability is not guaranteed during the semester indicated in the sample sequence.

Students must fulfill their Language Other Than English requirement by successfully completing a fourth level of a language other than English. See the corresponding section on the Degree and General Education Requirements (<http://catalog.illinois.edu/general-information/degree-general-education-requirements/>).

(<http://catalog.illinois.edu/schools/las/academic-units/>)

1. Students will demonstrate fundamental knowledge and comprehension of the major concepts, theoretical perspectives, historical trends, and empirical findings to discuss how psychological principles apply to behavioral phenomena. This includes:
 - a. describing key concepts, principles and overarching themes;
 - b. developing a working knowledge of the different content or program areas in psychology; and
 - c. describing the application of psychology to everyday life.
2. Students will develop scientific reasoning and problem solving skills, including effective research methods. This includes:
 - a. using scientific reasoning to interpret psychological phenomena;
 - b. demonstrating psychology information literacy;
 - c. engaging in innovative and integrative thinking and problem solving;
 - d. interpreting, designing, and conducting basic psychological research; and
 - e. incorporating sociocultural factors in scientific inquiry when appropriate.
3. Students will develop ethically and socially responsible behaviors for professional and personal settings in a landscape that involves increasing diversity. This goal encompasses:
 - a. applying ethical standards to evaluate psychological science and practice;
 - b. building and enhancing interpersonal relationships; and
 - c. adopting values that build community at local, national, and global levels.
4. Students will be prepared to apply psychology-specific content and skills, effective self-reflection, project management skills, teamwork skills, and career preparation to optimize their competitiveness for securing places in a graduate school, professional school, or in the workforce. For example, students should be able to:
 - a. apply psychological content and skills to career goals;
 - b. demonstrate project management skills and teamwork capacity; and
 - c. develop meaningful professional direction for life after graduation.
